MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT & CEO

Dear Friends,

There were days, many days, when I wasn't entirely certain how we would find our way. 2021 began feeling a lot like 2020, except there was a definitive pull towards optimism. Leaning into our new mission statement to ignite learning through explorations of art, history, science and culture rooted in the stories of people, the region and an international seaport, our team, trustees and volunteers embraced the uncertain year.

Meeting the digital moment, we beamed our lessons into classrooms and our learning series into living rooms. Hosting over forty programs, more than 80% of which were free, we reached well over 11,000 attendees. All the while we rebounded with in-person visitation seeing a 202% increase in guests through our doors!

Buoyed by our strong recovery and inspired by a bright horizon, the Museum purchased 11 William Street, a lot adjacent to our front entrance. Thanks to twenty major donors, we were able to acquire this long-desired property debt-free. Generosity from our supporters was the cornerstone of 2021. Memberships soared and our donors helped the Whaling Museum stand tall as the leading cultural organization on the SouthCoast. I will remain forever grateful.

The New Bedford Whaling Museum ignites learning through explorations of art, history, science, and culture, rooted in the stories of people, the region, and an international seaport.

A hallmark of the year was our declaration to be a Museum for ALL. Committed to removing barriers to access, NBWM welcomed 23% of our audience through one of our twenty free or discounted admission programs. Moreover, since 2020 we have donated more than 200 family memberships to local educators and 600 family memberships to lower-income residents through partnerships with social service organizations.

Giving voice to our community means the Museum must know our community. Anchored by our multi-year oral history project, Common Ground, the Museum captured over 250 (and counting) stories from our neighbors. Building on our founders' intention to create a historical society dedicated to collecting and sharing our heritage today, we are preserving the broad and diverse stories that make New Bedford a vibrant city.

After a stormy time, the Museum is energized for our next steps. There are days when I try to imagine what our founders thought we might become. Could they have envisioned this significant growth and impact? And then there are the days when I try to picture what the year 2103 looks like. What does this cultural hub feel like for all visitors? Importantly, what are we doing now to make it a forever institution?

Only time will tell, but one thing is certain: The New Bedford Whaling Museum has emerged a stronger, bolder, newer institution; a giant that did not sleep when times became tough. No, we grabbed 2021 and steered our course towards vibrancy. Now invigorated by our success, we are heading out on an epic adventure.

We are, after all, under full sail.

Amanda McMullen
President & CEO

Common Ground is an ambitious oral history project and exhibition to create a full picture of the Greater New Bedford region and residents through story collection.

A key goal is to give voice to community members. By gathering individual stories, Common Ground presents a diverse, inclusive, and celebratory accounting of the lived experiences of SouthCoast residents.

Our region is rich because of our diverse, shared histories- from the active tribal presence of Wampanoag peoples in Herring Pond, Mashpee, and Aquinnah, to Azorean, Cape Verdean, Central American and Caribbean immigrants who have come to this region; from a Quaker enclave and economic center, to regional settlement by ethnic communities from Ireland, Italy, Germany, and Poland. Stories of settlement, migration, and ethnic, religious, and cultural diversity form the heartbeat of the SouthCoast.

Common Ground is a community-focused story collection project that aims to demonstrate the depth and breadth of our communities in the greater New Bedford area by asking people to share a story about their ties to the region. Through this, we hope to highlight how diverse identities and individual stories intersect to create a singular picture of the region – and, in the process, find our “common ground.”

Common Ground will create an archive of oral histories and an exhibition. Storytellers are also sharing supporting documentation, including historic images, objects, and ephemera relating to individuals and significant places from their lives. Audio files and transcripts of individual stories will be accessioned into the New Bedford Whaling Museum’s permanent collection. As such, the stories of our community will be cared for and preserved – allowing researchers, descendants, and community members to access this archive for generations to come.

This project was conceived by Dr. Akeia de Barros Gomes, former Curator of Social History.

COMMUNITY STORIES

Candida Rose

Singer, songwriter, educator, and second generation American-born Cape Verdean. Former NBWM Trustee and Member of the Cape Verdean Advisory Committee.

When we had to move out of this area because of urban renewal back in the early-to-mid 70’s, I never forgot the importance of this whole area in my life. We moved up to the West End but I never forgot the importance of all of this. And so even as I grew up, went to school, left New Bedford, got married, came back, went to California, moved because of my work, and then I moved to Taunton to get closer to some of the work I do, but came back again, because there’s a draw. There’s this place that always draws me back. There’s this thing, there’s this magic, there’s this air that always draws me back to this place.

Charlie Chace

Docent at the New Bedford Whaling Museum and Vice President of Descendants of Whaling Masters

When I was 10 years old and preparing to enter 7th grade, we were paid a visit from Hurricane Carol, that is. We didn't really know that we were going to get a bad storm. But when it got going in earnest, my father had to leave to pick up my sister who was working at Hathaway Mills in the south end of New Bedford.

Shortly after that, the storm was getting really bad and water was starting to come into our basement. As my mom was trying to make lunch, I was watching the water work stair-by-stair up the basement steps.

By the time she finished making lunch we were wading in water in our kitchen. When my dad finally got home, he told us he had successfully picked up my sister, but on returning the bridges were closed because they were flooded, so he had to go around through Acushnet to get home. Just before he got home we heard some screaming. A fisherman's wife a couple of houses from ours got trapped when a wall caved in. My dad pulled her out, and that little rescue garnered us a really big lobster a few days later when her husband returned from sea.

Bernadette Souza

NBWM Trustee, Executive Director of Youth Opportunities Unlimited (Y.O.U.)

I was honored to share my story and have it be a part of the Common Ground Project. My memories of growing up in my neighborhood are very special to me. It made me who I am today. These memories of the strong women (moms) who lived in the Bay Village Housing Project will always help me to remember that I can get through anything challenging in life. I now had the opportunity to store my voice recalling these memories. What a gift for my child and his children's children to replay and hear my voice speak of these special times. I remain forever grateful for this opportunity.

2021 Financial Summary

For the year ending December 31, 2021

MESSAGE FROM THE TREASURER

As Treasurer of the New Bedford Whaling Museum, I am pleased to report on the Museum's financial performance in 2021.

Despite serious challenges, 2021 was a strong year financially. As we labored to put the pandemic behind us, our philanthropic goals were exceeded, our operating budgets were met, and we successfully raised the funds to acquire the property at 11 William Street without any borrowings. And for the 14th consecutive year, thanks to the strong support of its loyal and generous membership, the Museum showed a positive result at year end.

That steadfast support of the Museum from members and others was apparent in two other key financial areas as well; our annual Museum Fund surpassed expectations and our endowment ended the year at an all-time high of $19.2 million. The Museum continues to demonstrate its commitment to fundraising efficiency and strong fiscal management. A month ago, our annual financial audit was completed and a clean opinion was issued. Once again we've earned the highest GuideStar Platinum Seal and a top four-star rating from Charity Navigator.

As I write, 2022 is off to a solid start despite many uncertainties, and we are budgeting to outperform pre-pandemic 2019. Guided by a strong, five-year strategic plan, the Museum continues to make well-considered investments in improving its product, and deepening its commitment and connection to our community.

For your unwavering support these past two years we owe a debt of gratitude to our Museum members and donors. Thank you for your trust, and for helping advance the Museum's mission.
